

“ein unidentifiziertes politisches Objekt”
Jacques Delors

Its bold architecture, in such an urban setting, reflects the importance of its function, and the light which pervades it reflects its desire for transparency [...] Today, and after these historic developments to the image of Europe, [...] responding perfectly to the needs of a parliamentary democracy.

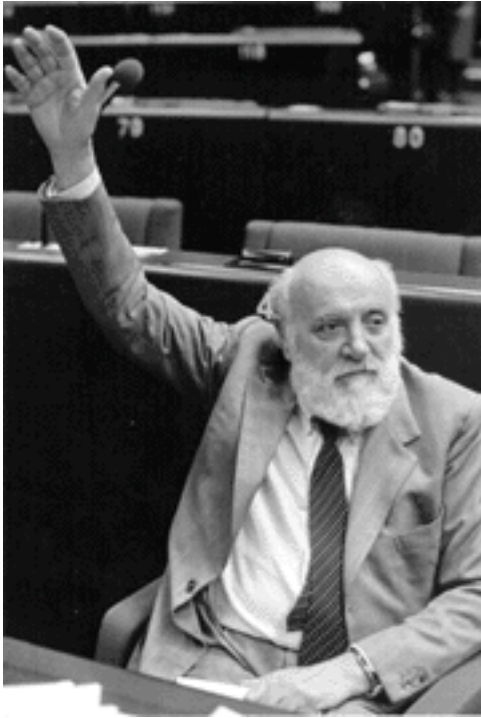

Jerzey Buzek, President of the European Parliament 2009 - 2012

“It took twenty years to completely transform a practically abandoned district and turn it into a workplace for the European Parliament”.

Alain Radelet, Executive Administrator of the Société Espace Leopold

“Projects are being developed to serve the needs not only of European institutions but of all people of Brussels. Europe’s presence brings substantial economic and cultural benefits to Brussels and Belgium. One element is still missing: a space reflecting the history of the European project, where visitors can see the development of European integration as one of history’s premier achievements toward peace, democracy and freedom.”

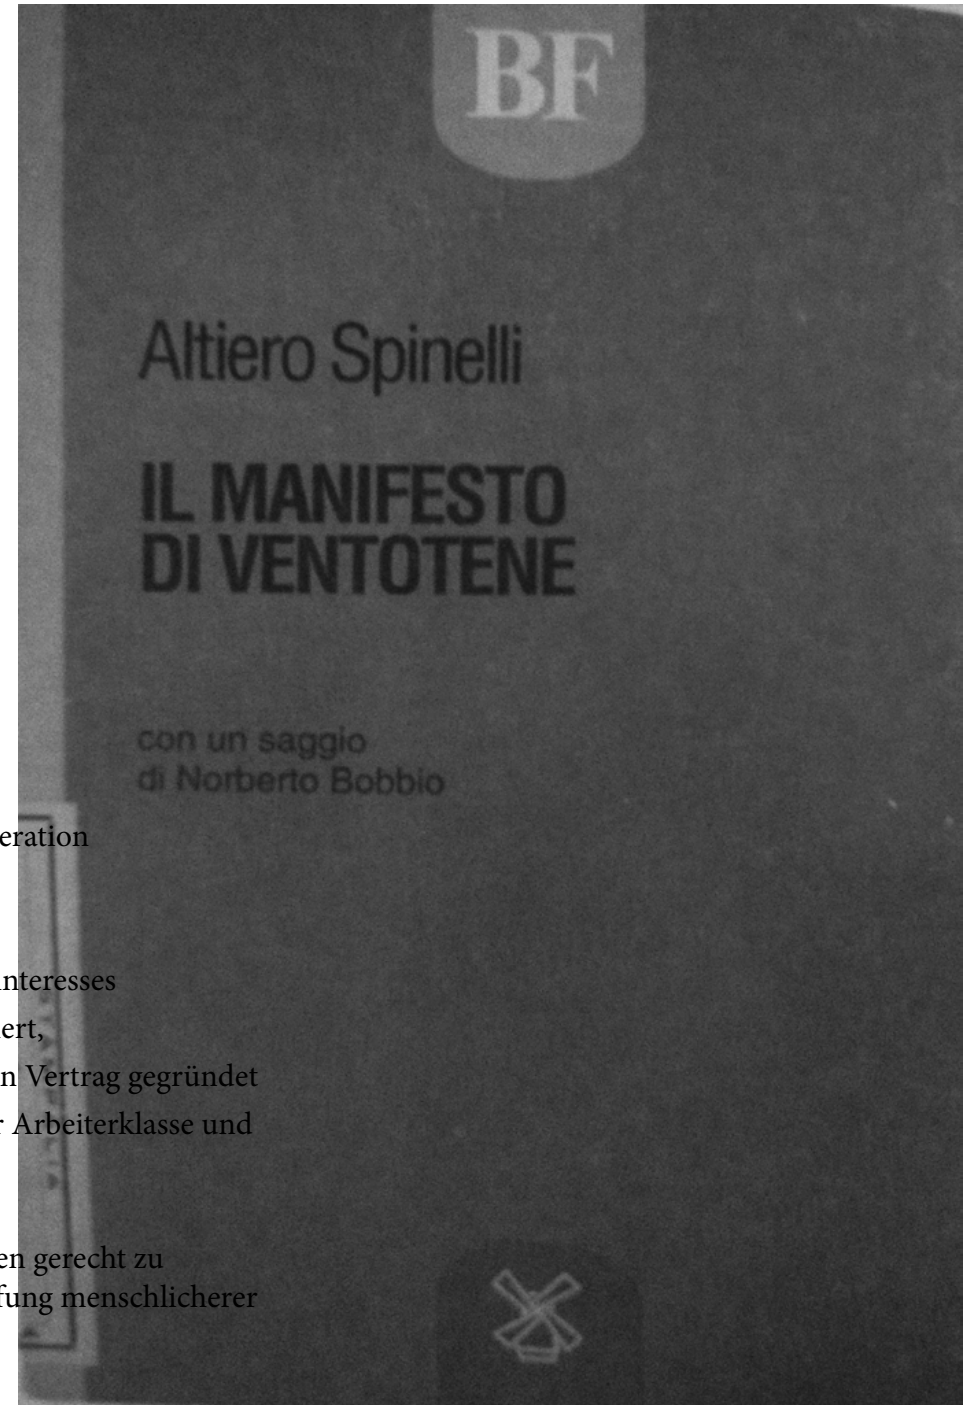

José Manuel Barroso, president of the European Commission

Konstitutionelle Methode:

- Krise des europäischen Nationalstaats --> Einzige Lösung europäische Föderation
- „revolutionäre Bewegung“ sollte eine Verfassung in Kraft setzen
- europäische Integration durch einen verfassunggebenden Akt
- Schaffung gemeinsamer supranationaler Organe zur Sicherung des Gemeininteresses
- Sah 1952 die Gründung der EGKS nicht hinreichend demokratisch legitimiert, nicht durch verfassungsgebende Versammlung sondern durch internationalen Vertrag gegründet
- vereinigtes Europa war für ihn zugleich Voraussetzung für die Befreiung der Arbeiterklasse und die Überwindung des Kapitalismus

„Die europäische Revolution muss sozialistisch sein, um unseren Bedürfnissen gerecht zu werden; sie muss sich für die Emanzipation der Arbeiterklasse und die Schaffung menschlicherer Lebensbedingungen einsetzen.“

Monnet Methode:

- neofunktionalistische Integrationskonzept „der Dynamik in kleinen Schritten von nachhaltiger Bedeutung“
- Konkrete Solidarität der Tat
- Ökonomische Instrumente als Mittel der politischen Integration
- Im Konsens getroffene Eliten-Entscheidungen
- Etappe(n) auf dem Weg zu einer noch wenig ausgeprägten finalité
